EDITORS NOTES

I get the pleasure of acting as Editor of the Update this first 2018 edition. Welcome and I hope you enjoy the New Kulin Update Year as it progresses.

I count my blessings and thank the heavens for all of Rachael Boyd's talent (CRC trainee) in bringing together all of the Update, well done Rachael. The front cover photo and Sunday Times article was a good promotion of Kulin and the current baby boom which is happening is no real surprise to locals, so do hope readers enjoy that. Won't be long and the little tots will be off to School with all the other Kulin students – to those heading back to a new year on Wednesday morning – travel safe.

As your guest Editor this Update, I am looking forward to a new CRC Manager commencing with the Shire mid-February, more information on that in the next issue. I am sure you will all enjoy a more informative, articulate and capable word sleuth to dazzle you in the Editor's role. Best regards

Noel Mason
CEO

CEO CORNER

For other reasons, this month I have taken a keen interest in the statistics of the 2016 Census from the Australian Bureau of Statistics.

An abbreviated summary for your New Year consumption:		2011	2016
Kulin Shire	Population	826	765
	Male	52.4%	52.7%
	Female	47.5%	47.3%
	Median age	41	44
	Families	226	208
	All private dwellings	441	467
	Average people per household	2.4	2.3
	Median Weekly household income	$918	$1221
	Median monthly mortgage repayments	$520	$650
	Median weekly rent	$89	$107
	Average motor vehicles per dwelling	2.7	2.5
Kulin Town	Population	330	369
	Families	94	80

Whilst Kulin Shire statistical trends across the agricultural sector follow many of the patterns of Wheatbelt towns with aging and declining populations, declining numbers per household and increasing household costs, Kulin town has had an 8.9% increase in the population even as the number of families is decreasing. The recent Sunday Times article pointing to the number of children per household being double the State average rings true – and is not yet seen in Census data.

Of all the statistical information available from the Census, one that stands out for me and absolutely demonstrates why Kulin Shire is leading this State of WA in “community development” is this;

UNPAID WORK

Voluntary Work through an organisation or a group	44.1%	46.4%
---	-------	-------

And what would you think is the National Average for voluntary work - 19%. My research for WA finds that many of our near neighbours and like communities sit with volunteer levels at 25-30%, so the message is clear. Volunteering and personal contribution MAKES community. Be proud, it is a worthy thing that you have achieved. In this department – Kulin may well be leading the Nation.

Kulin's Baby Boom

KULIN SHOWS US HOW TO DO IT

KULIN is fertile in more ways than one, with ideal growing conditions for wheat, sheep — and babies. New Australian Bureau of Statistics data reveals the women in the small Wheatbelt town — best known for its Tin Horse Highway — are among WA's most fertile.

Kulin's fertility rate was 3.12 babies born to each woman over the course of her lifetime.

It's part of a baby boom in country WA, with the top 10 most fertile locations dotted across our vast State. In 2016, more than 35,000 babies were born in WA, including 72 in Kulin, 280km east of Perth.

Another Wheatbelt town, Brookton, has WA's highest fertility rate at 3.3.

WA's average fertility rate is 1.89. The least fertile areas were Perth CBD (0.9) and North Coogee (1.1).

Kulin Shire president and local farmer Barry West, who raised four kids with wife Peta, said the town owed its mini population boom to a strong community spirit.

"Kulin is very accepting of new people and everyone volunteers to help out for different things like our bush race," Mr West said.

"We've got a lot of young professionals who have moved here in recent years and built homes here."

"We've got some great facilities here for young families including a strong playgroup for young parents, day care and good medical services."

Gen Whisson moved to Kulin eight years ago with husband Ben and the couple are parents to 19-month-old son Huxley.

The 33-year-old works as a private farming consultant and is about to open a florist business.

She said her previous job as a senior project officer for Kulin Shire to help promote local tourism attractions had given her plenty of scope to broaden her skills.

"I think a lot of people tend to misjudge small country towns but there's always so much going on," she said.

She said getting involved in volunteering was a "big part of country life".

Cindy Mullan, 33, who lives on a pig and wheat farm with three kids and husband Brenton, said the town was family oriented and had great facilities for families.

"Everyone makes an effort to include you in sporting games and kids' groups and there's a great childcare centre," she said.

Protecting Your Pets During An Emergency

More than 60 per cent of Australian households include a much loved pet and with the bush fire season upon us it's important our furry friends are included in the family bush fire survival plan.

Department of Fire and Emergency Service (DFES) Director of Community Preparedness Suellen Flint said actions for keeping pets safe were often left out when putting together an evacuation plan.

“Given we hold animals so close to our hearts, it is only natural that bushfire survival plans should include what you will do with your animals if you need to evacuate,” Suellen said.

There are several things you can do to prepare for a possible evacuation if you have pets.

1. Make sure your pet is properly micro-chipped and collared
2. Have a bag near the front door containing a lead, some food, a water bowl and any medications they may need
3. If you can't take your animals with you make sure they are not tied up so they can escape if necessary.

“While evacuation centres provide temporary accommodation during emergencies, they often do not accommodate animals other than trained assistance dogs,” Suellen said.

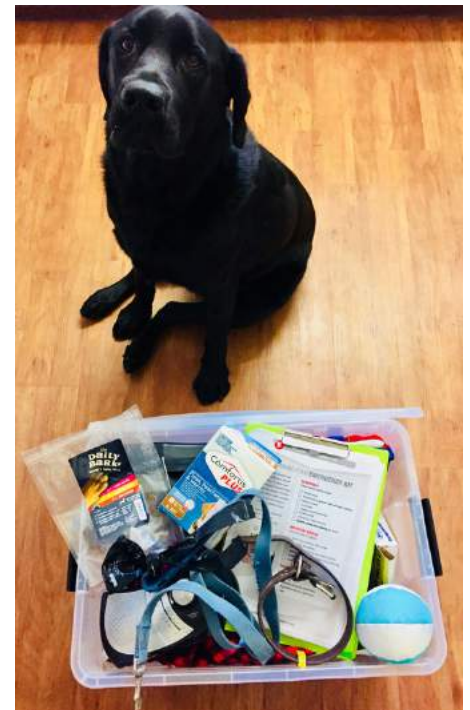

“If you are evacuating during a bushfire, you should try to take your pets with you on the first trip. You may have the best intentions of going back to get your pets on a second trip, only to find when you return that the roads have been closed because the area is unsafe.”

DFES and RSPCA WA recommend community members talk to their local government regarding where their pets can stay during an emergency, or ask family and friends if they can temporarily care for pets until the evacuation is over.

DFES and RSPCA have developed this video which outlines the steps to consider when evacuating with your pets (see link below).

Kulin Bush Races Notices

The Kulin Bush Races Committee is pleased to announce they have a community funding round open now. Grant applications can be received until Monday 19th March 2018. We encourage any community organisations or groups to apply now for small to medium, high priority and specific funding projects that will benefit the wider Kulin community. It is necessary to adhere to the guidelines in the grant application.

Representatives from the Shire of Kulin and the Kulin Bush Races Committee are presently investigating opportunities for a major funding project/s that will improve economic and community infrastructure and services in our region, and that will assist in attracting investment, increasing jobs and improving the quality of life in our region. Anyone interested in applying for the funding round can refer to the guidelines and application below or contact Janna Lockyer Secretary/Event Coordinator KulinBushRaces@outlook.com, 0459 088 600.

Yours faithfully

KBR COMMITTEE

Curtin Volunteers Co-ordinator

I'm looking to pass on the role of Curtin Volunteers Co-ordinator. I have done this role for the past 3 years and have loved it. The role is a great way to get more involved with the Bush Races volunteering without taking too much time and you don't have to be on the committee to do it. Please contact Janna Lockyer on 0459 088 600 or jannalockyer@hotmail.com for further information.
